

STRIP ME NAKED

RULES

Strip Me Naked, is a card game suitable for adults only, it is a very simple game, requiring no strategy or planning at all. The objective of the game is to win all the cards from the other players in each hand. After which all losing players have to remove an item of clothing. The winner of the game is the last player with any pieces of clothing left on.

To play Strip Me Naked, you need the following:

- Two to four players:
- Strip Me Naked App:

The Strip Me Naked App plays the whole game automatically; instructions are found at the top of the screen. These instructions display whose turn it is and how many cards have to be played.

How are how the App works: -

Different things can happen depending on what card has been turned over:

- If the value of the card is between 2 and 10, the card has no special significance, and the play goes on to the next player.
- If the card is a court card (an ace, king, queen, or jack), the game becomes a little more exciting. The next player then has to pay a penalty, meaning that they have to play some of their cards onto the central pile. If the turned-over card is an ace, the next player must turn over four cards one by one onto the pile; if the card is a king, they have to pay three cards; if a queen, two cards; and if a jack, one card.

If all the penalty cards the player turns over are between 2 and 10, then the player who turned over the court card takes up the whole pile and puts it under their own cards. But if the player turns over another court card during the course of the penalty, then the debt is deemed paid off, and that player doesn't have to turn over any more cards. Instead, the next player must pay the penalty dictated by the second court card and hope to turn over a court card in the process or concede the whole central pile to that player.

When a player has no more cards left, they are out, and the game continues without them. The last player in the game, who accumulates the whole deck, wins. All losing players at this stage must remove an item of clothing.

Your success at Strip Me Naked depends on the luck of the draw; if you get a good smattering of court cards, you will probably win.
